Sub: Permission to organize National Symposium on THE ROLE OF MASS MEDIA IN TEACHING LANGUAGES.

Respected Sir,

It gives me a pleasure to seek permission for organizing a National Symposium on THE ROLE OF MASS MEDIA IN TEACHING LANGUAGES. The mass media facilitate language teaching and learning and we educators have to seek for new ways and methods to make our classes more interesting and challenging for our students. It is also necessary to diversify and specialize the pedagogy and curriculum and make the education more relevant, focused and better-equipped with media.

Hence, it is decided by the Faculties of Languages to confer the scholars and academicians through this National Symposium.

We request you to permit us to organize the same and oblige.

Thanking you.

Yours faithfully,

television, radio, movies and more and Digital Media is fast and efficient form of mass media. It encompasses all types of social media, blogs, forums, web portals, and others. The technological innovation in mass media of educational communication means that education can now be transmitted to far off places.

Concept note with sub-themes (1000 words):

Media -- like all other teaching techniques -- should be used judiciously in the learning process. Media can be used to motivate discussions or lock-in concepts. The dramatic growth of social media creates new opportunities for engaging students. These include social networking sites such as Facebook, MySpace, LinkedIn, and Twitter along with blogs and wikis. Media is a gift to education which in turn is a blessing to humanity.

Multimedia helps teachers to make teaching and learning visual. Radio (playing the audio) helps auditory learners learn better. Listening to the tape and then having the script is a clear combination that helps visual and auditory learners. By using various kinds of Media in the classroom we can enhance students' understanding. The use of audio and video is crucial in analyzing and synthesizing, in tracking students' progress over time, in editing certain options, in testing and in peer coaching, etc. Internet serves as a source of information, a place for collaboration, and a place to learn and publish. Learning and teaching through computers is an alternative approach that stresses the student's use of computers to solve real-world problems while learning.

Nowadays, the students learn a great deal from TV, radio, internet, etc., a fact that we should not ignore but take advantage of. We should help the students to develop the whole range of individual, practical, social, cultural and intellectual skills which they will need in the future. There is practically no way of avoiding the mass media. We ought to start taking TV, computer games, internet, etc. seriously and use them not only as teaching material but as an efficient way to motivate the students.

Newspapers are linguistically up-to-date and provide valuable linguistic data. They may be used for the wide variety of text types and language styles, not often found in textbooks. Newspapers provide a natural source of many of the varieties of written English that become very important to students. So, they may be used as supplementary material and examples in text analysis while analyzing different types of texts.

There are different kinds of magazines. As with newspapers, magazines are resources for different subjects, cutting out pictures and passages associated with particular topics. Magazines are also sources in language development in providing pictures to stimulate verbal or written stories.

Using various kinds of media in the classroom has always been a challenge, and how to bring these media in the classroom is more than a challenge. Students and teachers should be able to use in their classrooms different media through different technologies. Media provide teachers and students with creative and practical ideas. They enable teachers to meet various needs and interests of their students. They also provide students with a lot of language practice through activities using newspapers, magazines, radio, TV, movies, books, Internet etc., and tasks which develop reading, writing, speaking and listening skills. They entertain students and encourage reading languages in general, both inside and outside the classroom, promoting extensive reading by giving the students the confidence, the motivation and the ability to continue their reading outside the classroom. Media "inform, amuse, puzzle, anger, entertain, thrill, but very seldom leave anyone untouched".

Bearing in mind all these features and positive inputs of mass media in education, we thought to confer the researchers, scholars and educationalists to discuss The Role of Mass Media in Teaching and Learning Languages.

Main Theme: The Role of Mass Media in Teaching and Learning Languages.

Sub-themes: A national Symposium focuses on the following topics:

- Experiential learning in language pedagogy.
- Evolution in pedagogy of language and media.
- Language and media education: generic to specializations.
- Media ethics: Relevance in pedagogy.
- Needs of Media Industry and academia linkage.
- ICT imperatives in media.
- Teach LSRW skills through the exploitation of Media.

- Enhance critical thinking skills of the pupils through the exploitation of Media and create Media based educational contents.

Objectives:

- To know the roles of mass media in teaching learning situations.
- To differentiate the negative and positive impact of media on education and to foster its positive impact.
- To know how mass media as a tool affects education.
- To know the merits and demerits of mass media in Education.

Possible Outcome of the Symposium: The Symposium on The Role of Mass Media in Teaching and Learning Languages will result with host of optimism towards the use of mass media in teaching learning situations.

- There will be a brainstorming on the role of Mass Media in the development of attitudes, values and language skills of an individual.
- The discussions will result with recommendations by the scholars for the use of mass media as a part of the syllabi.
- The output of the discussion will be published in the form of research articles.
- The possibilities of collaborations between media and academia will be explored.

Impact of Symposium on Society and Nation: Irrespective of caste, colour, geographical, sociological, economical diversities, mass media prove to be important means of education to all. The media affects people's perspective. The use of media in teaching- learning process has several advantages. Media could raise the students' interest of the lesson. It increases students' responsibility to control their own learning. It appeals to visual, auditory and kinesthetic learners. Students can watch a movie, listen to music or interact with digital media on an interactive Smart Board. Effective teachers do not rely on teaching students in merely one style but use a variety of styles to reach the greatest number of students. Providing a rich learning experience through classroom media keeps students focused and engaged in learning.

CONCLUSIONS: With the on-going development of information and technology in the society, media has given particular attention to the need of education and cultural diversity and promoted media consciousness among individuals. Media has opened a new dimension and gave a new meaning to education. Mass media plays a vital role in the formation of learning habits and skills. Mass media have the entire population as an audience and this fact makes their social importance obviously apparent. Because of questionable exposure of students to modern mass media and the awareness of the deficiency of these students in education, we are prompt to appeal the scholars to discuss The Role of Mass Media in Teaching and Learning Languages.

About the Symposium

There is a need for departments of languages to diversify and specialize their pedagogy and curriculum so as to make education more relevant, focused and better-equipped to cater the changing needs of the media. This requires forums for interaction between the academia, procedure for designing and reviewing of curriculum and quality enhancement initiatives. Recognizing the need to develop specialization the departments of languages in collaboration with Maharashtra Times have decided to organize this national symposium. This symposium aims to facilitate networking by bringing together scholars within and outside the region for a discussion and to come up with a futuristic vision for education in India.

The mass media can facilitate language teaching and learning and we educators have to seek for new ways and methods to make our classes more interesting and challenging for our students. Media can help with many issues such as: motivation, clarity, recycling, drafting, revising, editing, bringing variety, making mixed-ability classes, updating information in the textbook, giving life and colour to classroom procedures and methods. It helps the students to improve accuracy and fluency at the same time.

The media plays a dominant role in improving the teaching-learning process. Media has potential to shape personalities, change the way we perceive and understand the world and our immediate reality. The old-fashioned medium of information is found to be too unworthy for fulfilling the technicalities of the task. Technology made its introduction into the area of delivering education. Mass Media- divided into three categories – Print Media, Electronic Media and Digital Media- consists of the tools used for circulating information and ideas. It conveys the information to the masses, both generic and targeted.

Bearing in mind all the features and positive outcomes of mass media in education, we thought to confer the researchers, scholars and educationalists to discuss The Role of Mass Media in Teaching Languages.

REPORT

Introduction: Media is the buzz word of the era of globalization. The mass media is a “silent power” that can quietly influence the peoples’ thought-process and contribute in bringing out major educational changes. It has been widely recognized that a media can play a substantial role in promoting the development of curriculum. Media largely reflects the life styles, socialization patterns, cultural boundaries, political manoeuvrings, and educational standards. Media help with many issues such as: motivation, clarity, recycling, drafting, revising, editing, variety, mixed-ability classes, updating information in the textbook, giving life and colour to classroom procedures and methods. At the same time, it helps the students to improve accuracy and fluency. Hence we appeal the academicians, linguists, journalists, research scholars and students from far and wide to investigate and debate on the diverse perspectives of the themes, The Role of Mass Media in Teaching Languages. The intertwining of the themes made the symposium multifoci on one side and at the same time allowed multidisciplinary deliberation for the participants.
