Dear Sanjay,
Got it. thank you.
On friday, when is better, how about 8:30 Beijing time.
and what is the lecture title.
Following is the weblink of 2023, the guideline of 2024 will be announced next month.
<https://www.nsf.gov.cn/publish/portal0/tab1356/info88469.htm>

The audience was mainly about 15 foreign postdocs researchers from the college of Chemistry. the goal is giving them guidance on how to apply for Research Fund for International Scientists (hereinafter referred to as the RFIS), mostly they will focus on the first one (red), the essay one. we got is in 2019.
If you have time, you can apply the second or the third one (green), they have more money, can be used in some device or chemical.

I. Types of Grant

The RFIS consists of three sub-types:

- 1. The Research Fund for International Young Scientists (RFIS-I)
- 2. The Research Fund for International Excellent Young Scientists (RFIS-II)
- 3. The Research Fund for International Senior Scientists (RFIS-III)

with regards!

Dear Sanjay,
Thank you so much for your sharing today, I believe all of them learning a lot, and hope some researchers in our group can get.
Tomorrow, I will send one draft of news to check.
Thanks again.
regards!

One Page Report

1.	Name of the Department	Department of Physics, Vivekanand College, Kolhapur and Henan University, China
2.	Name of the Activity	Online Guest Lecture on “Application for Research Fund for International Scientists (RFIS)”
3.	Date / Duration	Friday, 08 th December 2023 at 06.00 AM
4.	Aims and Objectives	Aiming at providing more research opportunities for and contributing to the career development of researchers at different academic stages, the Research Fund for International Scientists (RFIS) is set up by the National Natural Science Foundation of China (NSFC) to support international scientists with foreign citizenship who are ready to conduct basic research in China's mainland.
5.	No. of Beneficiaries	<table border="1"><tr><td rowspan="2">Teachers</td><td>Male</td><td>02</td><td rowspan="2">02</td></tr><tr><td>Female</td><td>00</td></tr><tr><td rowspan="2">Students</td><td>Male</td><td>04</td><td rowspan="2">08</td></tr><tr><td>Female</td><td>04</td></tr><tr><td colspan="3" style="text-align: right;">Total</td><td>10</td></tr></table>	Teachers	Male	02	02	Female	00	Students	Male	04	08	Female	04	Total			10

Total			10
6.	Expenditure and Fundings	College Funds
7.	Brief Discussion	Dr. Sanjay S. Latthe has delivered an online guest lecture (on Google Meet) on “Application for Research Fund for International Scientists (RFIS)” to the Ph.D. and Post-doc students of Henan University, China. The RFIS will enhance the long-term, sustainable academic collaboration and exchange between Chinese and international scientists. He pointed out that the format of a research proposal varies between fields, but most proposals will contain at least these elements: Title page, Introduction, Literature review, Research design, Reference list. A research proposal serves as a blueprint and guide for your research plan, helping you get organized and feel confident in the path forward you choose to take. Prof. Shanhu Liu has given vote of thanks.
8.	Outcomes	Doctoral and Post-doctoral researchers of Henan University, China has got fruitful information on how to write a research proposal for RFIS.
